Keeping their strong offensive against the Germans north and south of the Somme River, in France, the Anglo-French forces again have driven their lines forward and captured important German positions.

South of the Somme, the village of Soyecourt and part of Vermandovillers have been captured, while seemingly more important still, the French have made fresh progress east of the village of Le Forest, which lies one and half miles southeast of the railroad town of Comblès. A Sunday which, taken with the capture of Guillemont, seemingly outflanks Comblès and apparently renders it untenable. More than 5,000 Germans have been made prisoners north and south of the Somme during last Sunday and Monday.

On the British right wing progress is reported north of Falfemont Farm while a German counter-attack northwest of Monquet Farm was repulsed. As a result of the fighting on Sunday last, north of the River Somme, in France, says the British official statement issued last Monday, British troops captured German trenches on a 3,000 yard front for an average depth of 800 yards and including the village of Guillemont.

Crops Damaged By Hail

On Thursday night of last week a hail storm swept over the Seal and Fairfairs districts doing considerable damage to crops. School Debentures

Building operations have been commenced on the new school. This is good news. No doubt a ceremony of laying the foundation stone will be performed by the Mayor.

Numerous letters have been received by the people of this district from W. Ross Alger & Company, who deal in Municipal and School Bonds, in reference to the School Debenture. In another column we publish a letter received by us. From the tone of the letter, it would appear that this company poses philanthropists who are anxious to do the town a good turn. It also suggests that the board have not done as well as they could. We have every faith in the local board and would like to see them answer this letter through the columns of The News.

UNHAPPY FIGHTING OF GERMANY'S ATTITUDE GERMAN DESPOTISM VERSUS MODERN DEMOCRACY

Harvard University Professor Has Issued a Denunciation of the Atrocious War Waged by the Hohenzollerns, in Which He Expresses No Doubt As To How the Struggle Will End

Over the impact of the Houghton-Mifflin Company of Boston, and under the title "Germany versus Civilization," has just appeared one of the most effective denunciations of the "atrocious war" waged by German despotism against modern democracy. The author, William Roscoe Thayer, has long been closely identified with Harvard University, and is an historical writer of established repute. From first to last his military deals not with the military events, but with the fundamental issues at stake, and the evolution of the human mind under the influence of such an attempt at world domination. With him the conclusion of the whole matter is this:

Those of us who believe in civilization know that the very soul of democracy, is the condition without which permanent spiritual good can neither spring nor thrive. In its deathless presence the Imperial German Empire, with the fanatical empires of those who were greater than they, are seen in their native material, mundane, mortal."

On the minds of those who have retained their essential humanity the effect of such an exposition is inevitably obscure and depressing. The Prussianization of Germany is here exposed as a process which will deepen the gloom hanging over the future of a State that has been a potent factor in the uplift of humanity and in the progress of civilization. So far from being drawn in too strong colors, the sketch by Mr. Thayer might be said to be not much more by taking into view the existence of the Holy Roman Empire for practically three centuries. From that time on it became an issue between the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns, which should dominate the German area in Europe, Bismarck and his successors made the German Empire a reality, and in favor of Prussia, and thus secured the moral and political dominance of this unprecedented double suicide which always be the greatest of all historical ironies.

Mr. Thayer has no lingering doubts as to how the gigantic struggle is ending, and, as he says, "the questions as to Prussia's motives or as to the disabuse of the world which shut out like justice, under whatever name, race, or creed, it tends downwards. The individual who, through the influence of the galleys, the nation despotic rule, or hierarchy which dominates the world, is the only one who is not humanly shot into hell from humanity, because, inhuman, he is made the ships standards of the fleet, and made straight for the bottom."

The part played by his own country in this awful crime, the scientific and human civilization arouses in Mr. Thayer a feeling of intense indignation that finds expression in a torrent of burning words, and in tears to shreds all pleas for neutrality in the face of such alternatives as Germany has presented. He is in the absolutely unprovoked and unjustified brutal violence of the campaign, and unhesitatingly alleges that Germany's conduct is a crime checked in Belgium and stopped in France. Mr. Thayer would have to over-throw, Great Britain, and even America—Toronto Globe.

An Inevitable Clock.
A public clock can be heard but not seen in one of the most famous places in the world, St. Mary's, Kingston, and is the only public clock in the immediate neighborhood. It chimes the quarters and the hours, but commits itself no further. It has no dial, no hands, no outward and visible sign of any kind to show that it is a clock. This eccentricity, it is explained, is the result of two causes, one aesthetic, the other financial. When the tower was built in 1897 a clock was suggested as an afterthought, but the architect protested that it would mean the addition of 15 feet to the tower, and the cost of its elevated position would be second only to that of the church, having but slender room for the clock and a clock with a dial. A compromise was arrived at, and the clock was of a chiming clock in the belfry without dial or hands.

Canada's Red Cross Work.
The growth of the Canadian Red Cross work has been phenomenal to the need, as far as such can be accomplished. Not only has the Canadian Red Cross been attended to, but the Imperial Red Cross has been organized in Canada supplies to the Russians, French, and Belgians. Each mail that comes from England carries a new development of Canadian Red Cross enterprise. Recently a conference home for invalids and nurses has been opened near Margate, England. In that conference, the work of the Canadian hospitals in France, in that conference, the work of the Canadian Red Cross enterprise. It also allows at fulfilling some new need.

The Control of Weeds Cultivated Crops

Some Weeds Are Friendly to Certain Cultivated Crops

We must study weeds in order to successfully combat them. A knowledge of the habits, growth, and distribution is essential before we can be made in the control of weeds. Some weeds are friendly to certain cultivated crops. Some weeds are friendly to certain cultivated crops. Some weeds are friendly to certain cultivated crops.

While the guns of the European armies are thundering incessantly on many battlefields in their mission of killing men and destroying man's works, the grape cultivator of France, in their turn, are using artillery to good advantage. But there is not destructive artillery, they are using guns only to protect their vines from the clouds of hail, which are using of hailstorms, which are not infrequently in the grape growing district.

Anti-hailstorm guns cannot be said to be novelties in the strictest sense of the word, for they date back to 1866, when an Austrian named Singer who had had an opportunity of witnessing the devastation caused by hailstorms, conceived the idea of firing a stream of hailstones at the clouds of hail, using an artillery piece as a gun. On the night of the 10th, that as a result of artillery fire, directed against the clouds, the threatened storm moved elsewhere before burning, thus saving the crops in the vineyard from the hail.

Following the discharge of the cannon, a whirling shaft of air, which is called a hailstorm, is directed against the clouds, which are composed of hailstones. The hailstorm is directed against the clouds, which are composed of hailstones. The hailstorm is directed against the clouds, which are composed of hailstones.

PREPARATIONS OF GREAT BRITAIN TO PROSECUTE WAR TO THE END ORGANIZATION AND RESOURCES PHENOMENAL

Weekly Output of Cartridges is now Greater by Millions than the Annual Output Before Commencement of the War, and Other Equipment Being Produced Accordingly

Mr. F. Kellaway, secretary to Dr. Addison, Parliamentary secretary of the Ministry of Munitions, has imparted some facts and figures respecting the organization and resources at the disposal of the country that constitute a phenomenal accomplishment even in these modern times. He said, "The Ministry of Munitions, which has been in existence since the outbreak of the war, has been able to produce a weekly output of cartridges which is now greater by millions than the annual output before the commencement of the war. To Harness the Tides.
Planning to Develop Power from the Tides in Bay of Fundy. The tides are about to be harnessed to labor. At Wellville, Nova Scotia, a development company has made a survey on the water of the Bay of Fundy with a view of developing a tide-water project at Cape Split. An American expert in hydraulic production of electricity is the scientific guide of that expedition. As engineers are too proud to develop such a project, this may be expected to wake us up in this country. The tides of the Bay of Fundy are as famous for their size as for the revolutions of Mexico, if not more so. A current motion recently experimented with in the Gaspeau river, was twelve feet long and two feet high, and it is reported to have developed a power of 100 horse-power by the time the tide was coming in—Western Telegram.

Canadian National Exhibition

The Canadian National Exhibition, opened at Toronto on Monday, has been designed to symbolize the unity of the allies against the military menace of Prussia. The exhibition was opened by Sir George Perley and the attendance already assures its success. A feature of special interest to Westerners is the excellent exhibit made by the Canadian Pacific Railway, showing the agricultural, mineral, timber, fisheries and fur bearing resources of Canada, particularly of the Western Provinces.

The Car and the Fifteen Inch Shell

"Fourteen months at the Front" published by Hodder and Stoughton, is the very interesting record of an American's experience. Here is a terrible incident at Ypres. He was in charge of a car and 270 yards ahead was

"Another car, with two officers, a machine gun behind the driver, and a colonel at the back. A big 15in. shell screamed and burst just beside it. From where we were it looked as if the car and its occupants must have been wiped off the face of the earth.... but when the smoke was fully gone you can imagine our surprise at seeing the car turned completely round and coming toward towards us. The chauffeur was gathering speed all the time, and his car was going at a fairly decent pace. We had time to see one of the most horrible sights I ever witnessed.

The car itself was in an awful condition. The two rear doors were torn away, the body was full of jagged holes, the front and rear mudguards and the running board on one side were torn off and the wind-screen had been swept away. The major had his head and the whole side of his body torn away, and the rest of him was leaning on the driver, who was being covered with blood.... The colonel was curled over on the seat, and his head and part of his shoulder were lying in a pool of blood in the bottom of the car....

As to the driver, he had practically gone mad. He never recovered from the nervous shock, and he was discharged almost at once.

In Lighter Vein

"My son was rejected, Mr. Pyke, because its teeth didn't fit proper. The doctor said 'it might be choked if it got one of them cannon-balls in its face.'"

Pat (one of a raiding party returning under heavy fire): "Come on, Tim. Phwat for are ye standin' there? Tim: 'I'm just waitin' till the little storm is over. If yez stand still ye'll only get what's fallin' in the way place; but if ye'll be runnin' 'bout the devil knows phwat ye might meet with!'"

Because we bought a pair of ladies shoes the other morning we have received a considerable amount of "joshing". It may be unusual for a bachelor editor to purchase ladies' shoes, but we do not consider it any of your business any way. We made a very satisfactory explanation of our behavior to the charming saleslady from whom we purchased the shoes, and besides, the husband of the lady for whom we made the purchase, (evidently realizing that we editors are always hard-up) gave us the money for that special purpose.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, we see, F. W. Webster, 'the human retriever.'"

M. M. McDonald and we ourselves, have some experience as retrievers, but we are not in it with "the human retriever," who fearlessly wades into the deepest of sloughs, hikes in the reeds and if the ducks do not rise, barks like a dog and brings them up by the hundreds.

Having been lost overnight in the wilds of the ranching country near the Red Deer river, our esteemed friend "Bully" was much astonished to find that the sun rises in the west down there, and not in the east as it does in all other parts of the civilized world.

The United States is contemplating the acquisition of the Galapagos Islands. These islands are chiefly famous as the home of the Giant Tortoise, and it is believed that a movement is on foot for the adoption of this dignified animal as the national emblem, in place of the eagle, which is considered by many as being too watlike in its symbolism.

Weather Conditions are Suitable for the Garning of Our Harvest

We have been having agreeable weather the past two days for harvesting. On last Saturday and the Monday following, altho it continued showering, many farmers were cutting grain. The only difficulty was that on the heavy land, the mud rolled up on the wheels. Owing to the season being later than last year, the farmers are not allowing the grain to fully ripen before cutting.

It can not yet be estimated as to the amount of damage caused by the frost on August 24th.

SOLDIERS GOING ON ACTIVE MUST MAKE A WILL

According to new military regulations, every man going on active service must make his will and file it.

Did You Know That—

Canada needs more Khaki and boys? Are you going to don a British Uniform?

It has been decided to erect a permanent monument to Earl Ritchie on Marwick Head, in the Isle of Birsay, Orkney, near the sunken reef where the Hampshire went down. The elevation of the headland will render the erection visible a long distance off, both by land and sea.

It was officially announced today that the British casualties, killed, wounded and missing, on all fronts in the month of August totalled 4,711 officers and 123,244 men.

Speaking at the opening of the Fair at Windsor, Ontario, the Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, declared the government was prepared to adopt any measures which might be necessary to provide the half million men which Premier Borden had promised should be raised by Canada to aid the motherland, and while he did not think conscription would be resorted to until every other means had failed, he warned eligible men to be ready.

The cornerstone of the new parliament building was laid at noon on Sept. 1st, by the Duke of Connaught in the presence of a distinguished assembly. The old corner stone which was laid by the late King when he was the Prince of Wales fifty-five years ago was again replaced in the foundation of the new building, but with an added inscription.

Consular dispatches report a German newspaper, the Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung, as saying: "We are not contemplating a war with the United States, and therefore citizens of that country taken prisoner in battle and found with arms in their hands, should be considered as murderers and executed."

Skookum Jim Madon, an Indian, who, with George Carmack, of Seattle, discovered the Klondike gold field 20 years ago, died in poverty recently at Carcross, Yukon Territory.

More than 5,000 men will be needed for work in the woods of northern Saskatchewan this coming winter, according to W. J. Heinrich, in charge of the employment dept. of the Prince Albert Lumber Co.

A soldier from one of the military camps, while home on his leave, remarked that "the good Lord sends them their food, but the Devil sends the cooks."

President Wilson succeeded in averting a general railway strike in the United States. On January 1st, the eight hour law comes into effect.

On Sept. 1, the U. S. and Canadian Paper Mills had only two weeks supply of news print on hand. This shortage will likely continue until the cessation of the present war.

The telegraph companies inaugurated the day letter on Sept. 1. This step will be much appreciated by the public.

Letter Re. Debentures

Edmonton,
August 20th, 1910

Dear Sir:

We feel that it is our duty to ask you through the medium of the "Oyen News" to inform the citizens of the Oyen School District No. 3068, fully regarding the action taken by the Board of Trustees in connection with the sale of their School District Debenture for $80,000.00, which we understand has been sold to the Alberta School Supply Company at par at 7 per cent.

On the 2nd of August, after the debenture had been authorized, which placed the Board in a position whereby they could enter into a valid agreement for the sale of same, we telephoned the Chairman, Mr. Dick, and asked him if they were prepared to consider offers for the sale of this issue and he informed us that the Board were anxious to obtain as much money as possible for it, and he desired to know our quotation. We informed him that we would pay 102.75 or 86.145 and accrued interest for the debenture with interest 7 per cent payable in 20 annual instalments, the bonds to be prepared and the proceeds delivered free of any expense to the district at their nearest bank, which offer was confirmed by telegram. Upon hearing nothing further we later asked for a reply to our wire, and on the 10th, of August we received a telegram from the Chairman stating that at a meeting held the previous day the debenture was sold to the Alberta School Supply Company at a price we now learn to have been par at 7 per cent, which means a loss to the district on this transaction of $165.

In a new country, such as this, it is a heavy burden on the ratepayers to meet the different expenditures necessary towards the providing of a proficient education for our children and it is therefore, doubly necessary that the School Boards should do everything in their power to make the best arrangements possible in financing the operations of their schools.

Yours very truly,
W. Ross Alger & Co.

Miss Bowdoin Leaves

A very delightful party was given at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Barnes Friday, evening in honor of Miss Donald Bowdoin.

The evening was happily spent in playing guessing games, charades and many other familiar pastimes.

Delicious refreshments were served after which the participants formed a "circle of friendship" and heartily sang, "Auld Lang Syne."

Miss Bowdoin, who has just completed a five months term of teaching at the Springburn School leaves in the near future for London, Ontario, where she visit friends and relatives for a few weeks, after which she will proceed to Toronto to resume her studies at Queen's University.

Miss Bowdoin has made many friends during her brief stay here, who will miss her influence in the community.

The Messrs. Spaulding, Webster, Ballentyne, Hale, Dunford and Lawrence, spent the week-end at C. Jarboe's Ranch.

Miss Masie Kempthorne of Clemens district was the guest of Miss Eva Peterson and Mrs. Loucks over the week-end.

Farmers and Theshermen ! - Your Harvest Help Requires Wholesome Meat this Season

The men will gladly "Roll-out" in the morning, if they know that the cook is going to give them the Bacon and Ham that he knows we handle. It is along time until dinner but they are satisfied when the roast beef or pork is what we supply. Oh! that lunch in the afternoon is what hits the spot if the filling for the sandwiches comes from this shop. As soon as they have eaten the lunch, they begin to say, "Supper is going to be likin' good because we know where the 'Boss' bought the meat."
